INDINOX 2015: The Power of Stainless Steel

Incredible India is on the way to unleashing its enormous potential for stainless steel products. 1.3 billion consumers are increasingly becoming 'middle class' which boosts stainless steel demand in all industry segments including:

- Consumer goods and tableware
- Building and construction
- Transport (railway, car, etc.)
- Chemical and petrochemical process industry
- Energy (oil, gas, power)

In conjunction with SMR Events, Metal Bulletin Events is delighted to announce the launch of INDINOX Stainless Steel Conference 2015, which will take place at the Mahatma Mandir, the newly-built world class conference centre, in Gandhinagar (near Ahmedabad, Gujarat), India from 25-26 January 2015. This conference will provide a great window for international companies to meet local miners and producers to explore business opportunities in India, the 2nd largest stainless steel market today and one of the fastest growing economies in the world.

Having had the honor to welcome the current Prime Minister of India, Narendra Modi, to speak at previous conferences, the INDINOX Stainless Steel Conference 2015 can again expect a host of influential speakers and attendees from both local and international companies to be at the heart of the conference, which will cover all commercial issues of the Indian and global stainless steel industry.

So if you are in the stainless steel industry and India is on your radar, Mahatma Mandir is the place to be on 25 and 26 January 2015.

Who shall attend

- Buyers who are interested in stainless steel products 'Made in India'
- Stainless steel producers who want to sell their products in India
- Traders and distributors of sheet, plate, bars, fittings, flanges, pipe, etc who are interested to buy in India
- Raw material suppliers who plan to sell alloys into the fast growing Indian stainless steel industry
- Engineering companies who focus on the growing need for production equipment in India

Supporting Organisations

Media Partners

INDINOX is one of the most prestigious events in the region and globally for the stainless steel industry, organized by the Indian Stainless Steel Development Organization, a non-profit organization. Last ran in 2010, INDINOX 2015 is scheduled to run from 24–27 Jan 2015.

The INDINOX Expo, the central event of INDINOX, will welcome 800 exhibitors from all sectors of the industry and attract over 80,000 visitors. The expo will cover all parts of stainless steel – from steel melting to final products made from stainless steel. It offers an excellent platform for both B2B and B2C opportunities, with the core focus of this fair on technology and machinery and equipment.
