This integrated solar collector has been made with a ferritic grade of stainless steel. The collector produces hot water for domestic consumption. The system is fully autonomous and utilises a recirculation pump powered by photovoltaic (PV) cells. All parts of the system are integrated within the absorber. This includes the 150 litre storage tank and PV recirculation system.